H. H. Waugh killed a fine four snag buck on Thorny creek Saturday. He shot it running at a distance of thirty steps, with a 303 Savage, killing it almost instantly. Upon examining it he was surprised to find that its ears bore his mark exactly—a swallow fork in the right ear and two clefts in the left. Some dog had evidently caught the deer and chewed his ears thus. The antlers were large and fine formed. In one of them was a hole in which a piece of stick was embedded. The deer had evidently wounded himself when the antler was in the velvet like flesh.

The recent consignment of citizens of Dunlevie brings the number of residents in our bastille up to about twenty. The greater number are there awaiting investigation by the grand jury for violation of the local option laws, although there are a number serving sentences in idleness because the county court refuses to pass the necessary order to put them to work on the county roads. There are also a few prisoners from the Federal Court, who crossed the United States revenue regulations. The jail is now crowded beyond its capacity, and as the jailer is keeping such close watch and frustating every attempt at jail delivery, it looks as though we would soon have to provide more quarters for the poor unfortunates who fail to keep the laws and are apprehended.

John Moore and Calvia W. Price when returning from a deer hunt, killed a large wild cat in Buckley Mountain Friday evening. The varments track was found in the snow, and by a piece of hard tracking, with out the aid of a dog, the cat was jumped, a few blasts taken it with "Old Pote a Biling," the editors famous meat providing rifle, but the cat lived until it ran athwart a load of buck shot. The thunderous reverberations and consequent shower of limbs and rain of bullets raised another cat from his lair, but ensuing darkness allowed him to escape under cover of the night. The cat is now in the hands of the taxidermist who will mount it for our collection. It is a fine specimen of a she Canadian lynx, commonly called a wild cat here. The male is much heavier built and is known as a catamount. The same mistake is made as regards yellow and black rattlesnakes and they are popularly supposed to be different species of snake, but we once saw a happy brood of a yellow rattle in which the number of black and yellow snakes were about equally divided.

There was considerable court before Squire Curry Saturday at the trail of Charles B. LaRue, aged 19, for assaulting a man named Simmons with a stone. The trouble originated when LaRue interfered and separated Marion Simmons and a smaller boy who were fighting at school. He then got in a racket with Simmons, but both apologized when they were corrected the following day by the teacher. The Simmons boy, however, told his father of the matter, and he came to town with the expressed purpose of getting at the bottom of the trouble, and hunted LaRue up. He found him at Holt's store, and a considerable quarrel ensued, in which both sides indulged in a quantity of profanity. LaRue picked up a piece of masadam stone, and told Simmons that he was only a boy and if he got off his horse he would hit him with the stone. They then spoke some more compliments to each other, and Simmons dismounted again, when LaRue threw the stone with terrific force, hitting Simmons in the forehead, laying him out, and exposing the skull. Simmons was dazed some time from the concussion, but made good recovery. He is a small man, from Rockingham County, and is forty-two years old. LaRue was bound over to the grand jury under $500 bond. Price, Oenton & McPeake have charge of the defense.

He cautioned his fellows to look out and Mr Livesay turned his face and was hit on the cheek, receiving a bad gash several inches long.

PIG'S EARS RAIDED

Prosecutor Hills Still After them

More trouble was raised in the ranks of the illicit tailors Monday by special officers Lincoln Cochran, Pat Simmons, Samuel Ruckman, and Sergeant White, at Dunlevie. There were six victims and a cloud of witnesses hauled before Squire Birj Tuesday morning for a hearing. They were Sam Howard, who was released as there was no evidence against him; one named Douglas; Frank Ervine, Mike Long, Furbee and one who refused to give his name.

Again were the ungodly pig ear men of Dunlevie taken unawares. They watch all trains and public roads and have a cipher by which friends along the line may send warning by wire, but the officers slipped through the woods and into Dunlevie on its blind side and carried away to Marlinton and to jail its saloon keepers. Only one joint was pulled, a place north of the County road. In this place Furbee and another who refuses to give his name were taken. Furbee he thought himself to remove from that place after the warrant was read to him and made a break but a bullet which clipped most dangerous near his fast moving legs caused him to change his mind and he surrendered to the nearest deputy at hand. He gives as a reason for his break for liberty that this is the first time he has ever under arrest and did not know how to conduct himself.

The others were gathered up around the town seemingly looking on the "square" in some mysterious manner as all from appearances are constitutionally opposed to honest labor. They are wanted for past offenses.

One of them at least Mike Long is wanted by the Circuit Court on a Capeas for failing to appear to observe certain indictments found against him. He has been a particularly outbreking offender and has been luckly in eluding or escaping from the officers.

As usual a big lot of whiskey and beer was captured the raid. These spirits are wanted badly by those who have been dispensing them, but it seems the intoxicants, if not all the dealers, will be locked up. In the scrimmage which ensued when the saloon was pulled, the revenue stamp, if one there was, mysteriously disappeared. If it be produced, it is sufficient evidence to prove an exposure of intoxicants for sale, and if it is not forthcoming the Federal authorities will be here, hotfoot for the United States wont stand for any foolish business when its revenue regulations are violated.

One wonders why the continual pulling of the joints of Dunlevie and others points in the Upper end does not put an end to the business but it is well nigh impossible to reach the real offender the man who put the money for the stock and delegates some poor devil of a broken down woodsman way farer or degenerate to carry on the business on Commission. The general plan is to stock the joint in the morning and if the place escaped a raid during the day take an inventory and settle at close of business. As a rule their stock consist of the cheapest intoxicant obtainable upon which several hundred per cent profit is realized. Should the place be dispoiled by officers even once a month, the profit of a day or so will easily replace the booze which may be locked up by the Court. The opportunity to make a pocket full of money and get all the booze that comfort demands on the side more than overputs the possibility of answering before a bar of justice and consequent lying in jail.
